DEDICATED TO RICHARD N. LANDER 1928-1993

In 1943 as a teenager, Richard N. Lander began a handwritten numbered list of every gravestone in the Town of North Castle. In the summers he would walk or hitch a ride to visit the local cemeteries from one end of the town to the other in order to record the name and data of all the persons buried in the town. His objective was to gather and record this valuable information for historians and genealogists. Even at that early age Dick realized the importance of historical records. He was a born historian with a natural curiosity to solve the mysteries of the people and places from the past.

At a young age Dick found the perfect mentor in his neighbor, Dr. George Clark, the local medical practitioner and a student of local history. Dr. Clark would take him along on his rounds, pointing out historic sites along the way and relating stories about the people and places of long ago. Dick was also drawn to James Hopkins, a descendant of an early North Castle family. James was also a historian and was once a North Castle supervisor, and Westchester County Judge, later serving on New York State's Appellate Court.

After school Richard worked for a title search company, and in 1957 began a 29 year career with Westchester County. He first worked in their Land Records office which was the perfect place for an aspiring historian. This experience gave him the opportunity to be in the right place to do research during lunch breaks and after hours, while at the same time helping others with their research. In 1962 Richard became Commissioner of Jurors of Westchester County, a career that lasted until he retired due to illness in 1979.

At the early age of 18 Dick was appointed first official historian of the Town of North Castle, a post he held for nearly 50 years. He was a member of the Westchester County Historical Society from 1942 and later a member of their board for many years. He was an Honorary Member of the Westchester County Genealogical Society. He also served on the Board of the Middle Patent Cemetery Association and was its president from 1976 to 1992. He was instrumental in the cemetery's expansion and initiated many improvements so that it became a model ongoing cemetery. Dick was also a North Castle Councilman and one of the founders of The North Castle Historical Society and an officer and/or trustee until his death.

Dick's great contributions to the history of the Town of North Castle are legendary and although he died before he could finish many of his ongoing projects, his legacy of numerous written works and genealogies are an invaluable resource for today, and for generations to come. Among those works is the list of gravestones he worked on as a teenager and throughout his adult life. This became the primary source of information on those buried in North Castle prior to 1945, and the material used for this publication.

FOREWORD

by Barbara S. Massi

In early America cemeteries were usually associated with churches. These were called "churchyards." There were also community burial grounds - some town-owned and some privately owned. These non-denominational cemeteries were usually called "graveyards." In rural areas some families would set aside an area on their farm as a family burial ground. They would surround the plot with a stone wall and leave an entryway, usually with a wooden or metal gate - presumably to keep the livestock out. Many of these early farmers would simply mark the gravesites with a stone from their field and carve crude initials and date of death on the fieldstone. In some cases no initials or dates were carved. In most cases, however, a formal gravestone of granite, gneiss, slate, sandstone or marble would be purchased and engraved by a stone carver. The very shape of a gravestone suggests a doorway, which could be interpreted as a symbol of an entryway into Heaven. Another theory is that a gravestone represents a headboard (the head of a bed) and the footstone the foot of the bed.

As the years passed and subsequent generations moved away from the area of their forebears the old family burial grounds were left unattended and eventually became overgrown with shrubs, trees and vines. And as can be seen in many old burial grounds today, harsh weather and other environmental conditions have taken their toll on the stones and greatly affected their integrity. As we have observed in many of North Castle's old burial grounds, the stones have deteriorated to the point where they are becoming more and more illegible. And in many cases the stones have broken and either partially or totally fallen down, with some even sinking into the earth. Stones that are set on a base with iron dowels lose their stability when the dowel decays and thus can easily fall over. And stones that have been set two or three feet into the ground have a tendency to break off at any point above the ground.¹

Although we have found many old burial grounds in the Town of North Castle we are certain that there are others, including Native American. For instance, a recently found cemetery in the isolated East Middle Patent area of North Castle was discovered by accident when a friend, Muriel Kammerer, showed George Pouder and me several old deeds that were passed down indirectly through her husband's family. One was a land deed of 1807 in which is mentioned "through the burying ground." A typed copy of that old deed can be seen after The Mianus Burial Ground in this book. It will give the reader an idea of how early property transfers were written. It will also give the reader insight into why we had to convert links and chains to feet and draw a map in order to find the old burial ground. This was done with the kind help of Lew Massi, husband of this writer. We then contacted Tony Godino who grew up in the Mianus River area and knows the terrain very well. Following the directions on the map, Tony paced it off and, to our amazement, found the cemetery in the middle of almost a thousand acres of woodland in the Mianus River Gorge Preserve -- a remarkable feat considering that not a stone was visible!

We can only assume that there are other such long forgotten burial grounds in North Castle that were never cared for or recorded, and that they, too, became part of the landscape. For instance in 1943 Richard N. Lander recorded that there were a few fieldstone markers with no initials or dates in what he called the Tuckertown Cemetery in the Whippoorwill area of Armonk. Although it is rumored that a house now stands on the site it is possible that these stones may be somewhere behind the house in Whippoorwill Park. Unfortunately, as of this date, we have been unable to find them. Lander also recorded a stone for Sarah Waterbury with markers for three children on the old Waterbury Farm on Whippoorwill Road. However, this engraved stone duplicates a stone found in a cemetery in the neighboring town of Pleasantville where Waterburys also resided. Was the body moved to Pleasantville but the stone left behind? Not knowing where on the property it belongs, at the present time it leans against a tree in an apple orchard on the Bruno (formerly Lorentz) estate, near the former site of the old Waterbury farmhouse. On a detailed map by Del Pietschker (who lived in Kensico), depicting Kensico before the valley was flooded for the Kensico Reservoir it shows that there was a cemetery in the Village of Kensico. Although we have tried to find out about this the only information found was in a report on the removal of bodies from the various cemeteries within the New York City watershed areas. It indicates that there were no remains removed from the Kensico valley. We find it hard to believe that not one cemetery existed in the huge Kensico valley or that there were no family burial sites even on today's large peninsula. Unfortunately we will probably never know.

The cemetery project actually began as a genealogical project while doing research for my book about a North Castle woman who kept a daily diary in the early 19th century: "The Story of Mary Guion Brown, From Her Diary of 1800-1852." On a research trip to the Westchester County Historical Society George Pouder, who assisted me with the research for the book, and I found photocopies of a handwritten list of those buried in North Castle compiled by the late Town Historian, Richard N. Lander, in the late 1940's. Also included was a typed version done by K.R. McLaughlin for the Westchester County Historical Society. However, the photocopies of both lists were of very poor quality and very difficult to read. Therefore, to help us along with this project Dick's wife, Jean, kindly let us review his original ledger which cleared up many of the names and dates that were illegible on the copies. Meanwhile, another list turned up for the Methodist Cemetery and four others for the Quaker Cemetery. Although many of the inscriptions on these lists were compatible with Lander's there were many names and dates that were in conflict with one another. In addition to this problem, new names of people buried in the old Foster/Buckhout Burial Ground that were not on the Lander list because some of the stones were already missing when he worked there, were obtained from Foster descendants Norman MacDonald and Patricia Stephens Smith found in family records, and John Harrington, President of the White Plains Historical Society.² Also, we were informed by Buckley Carpenter that several remains and stones in the Quaker Cemetery were moved to Fair Ridge Cemetery in Chappaqua, New York long before Lander did his list. These names are included on our list but we have noted that they were reportedly moved. We have also included the names of several people who were originally buried in the Lyon Cemetery but who, according to Richard Lander, were moved early on to Long Ridge Cemetery in Connecticut.³ In 2003 Judy Johnson Zelter gave us some names and dates of ancestors of hers that she found in obituaries and town records who were buried in the Methodist and St. Stephens cemeteries without stones. And Stan Telega gave us the name of an ancestor of his in St. Stephens who does not have a stone.

It was decided to go directly to the stones in each cemetery to check all of the information on the lists. A card file was initiated in order to record all of the data as well as any genealogical information that might turn up. The information was then put on a database. The grave numbers are from the Lander list. Graves without numbers were not on the Lander list, either because he missed them (which is very easy to do), or because the stones were missing or buried. For more than four years, working mostly in the Spring and Fall months, we checked and recorded the inscriptions on approximately one thousand gravestones in all of the cemeteries in the Town of North Castle except the large Middle Patent Rural Cemetery. Where deterioration was a factor, we would find it necessary to rub part of a stone in order to be sure of accurate information and, where necessary, make corrections to the list. Maps were drawn for us, gratis, from our sketches of nine of the cemeteries by Lew Massi showing each stone with a number and initials to correspond with the list. Thus each grave can be found even as the stones deteriorate. In this endeavor we are gratified to know that we have done our best to preserve them, if only on paper! Unfortunately, this procedure could not be done in the Foster Cemetery since most of the stones were stolen over the years except for one monument that was too large to move.⁴ Thus out of 53 known burials in that cemetery, only the one stone remains. Also, the stones in the Briggs Cemetery are no longer there (or at least visible) which made it impossible to do a map. Fortunately, Richard Lander had recorded the stones in this old burial ground, but unfortunately, we were unable to check them.

As we worked our way through each cemetery we uncovered many interesting facts and connections, much of which came from descendants doing their genealogies. In this regard, we consider this project to be ongoing and hopefully, because of this book, even more information will be forthcoming regarding the people buried in North Castle's old burial grounds. We will add this information and source to the card file.

² Although at one time this cemetery was in North Castle, when White Plains annexed much of the area for watershed this became part of the City of White Plains. It is just over the North Castle-White Plains line.

³ We believe this to be on Long Ridge Road, Stamford, Connecticut.

⁴ Several stones were saved from theft and stored by the White Plains Historical Society.

Since we have checked each visible stone in all the cemeteries except the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery, and tediously included all information where possible in all of the cemeteries, we are convinced that the following list of gravestones is about as close to accuracy as anyone will ever get. It has already helped a number of people find their long lost ancestors thus giving us satisfaction that our project was very worthwhile.

We hope that this book will promote a greater appreciation of and respect for our old burial grounds and that it will prove to be a valuable source of reference for students, history buffs and those researching genealogies. Our old burial grounds have, after all, a wealth of historical information that cannot be found anywhere else!

The Briggs Burial Ground

The Briggs Cemetery is located well off the road behind private property on Wago Avenue and Old Mt. Kisco Road. It is surrounded by a stone wall and a right-of-way comes in from Old Mt. Kisco Rd. There are no gravestones left in place, only several (not legible) leaning against a tree with no indication of where they belong. Therefore the list done in 1943 by Richard Lander was probably done either when the stones were still standing or from information gathered from the Briggs family. Thirteen burials are listed for this cemetery. There are probably more. Unfortunately we will never know. (See town map of historic sites.)

The Carpenter Burial Ground

The Carpenter Cemetery is at the corner of Evergreen Row and North Lake Road in the Windmill Farms development in Armonk. There are 26 known graves here and many fieldstone markers, a few with initials. In 2000 Betsy Rusk of Residents of Windmill led a project to restore this very neglected cemetery and repair the surrounding stone wall. Today it gives a charming New England touch to the neighborhood. The stones in this cemetery face west. (See town map of historic sites.)

The Cox Burial Ground

The Cox Cemetery is on the north side of School Street. Although it appears to be a continuation of the old Methodist Cemetery at the corner of Cox Avenue and School Street, it is actually a separate burial ground for the Cox family. All of the stones in this cemetery face south. One particularly interesting stone is in the shape of a log. (See town map of historic sites.)

THE FERRIS CEMETERY IN WESTMORELAND SANCTUARY

by Michael Ferris

By the records of deeds in White Plains, the Ferrises were land holders in Westchester County as early as 1667. The first recorded Ferris living in Bedford was April 7, 1747, when at a lawful town meeting for choosing town officers for North Castle, John Ferris was appointed "Highway Master for the year ensuing, for the east side of Long Bridge."¹

The Ferris family were farmers, and it is written the farm originally here comprised some six hundred acres. The crops were harvested and sold to New York, going by wagon to Port Chester or across Westchester to barges on the Hudson River.²

When America declared its independence in 1776 John Ferris is recorded as being the seventh volunteer in the Bedford colonial army.³ When Bedford was burned by the British in July 1779, the house of John Ferris that stood on Route 22 was burned to the ground.⁴ A new home was built and John Ferris was buried here on October 6, 1808 at age 85.

Farming continued through the 1800's with other Ferrises, notably Daniel and James having residences on adjoining lands. Neighbors such as the Zarr family (who maintained a family cemetery in Westmoreland Sanctuary next to the museum), the Lyons, Reynolds, Carpenters, and Ferrises, all intermarried, and with eleven John Ferrises recorded in Bedford cemeteries, records can become sketchy at best.

In the early 1900's farming no longer became profitable in Bedford and the lands were subdivided and sold. The last lot being sold by the estate of Hannah E. Ferris to Daniel O'Brien in September 1928.⁵ This was in turn sold to Edward Boise in 1931⁶ and then sold to Helen Frick in 1939,⁷ who generously donated it to the Westmoreland Sanctuary in September 1978.⁸

There are forty-eight graves in this cemetery. The oldest stone is Elizabeth Ferris, 1789. The last stone is John B. Ferris, 1898, giving the cemetery one hundred nine years of use. There are unfortunately twelve graves marked only by fieldstone markers. Who they are and when they passed through here is sadly unknown. Besides the Ferris family there are seven graves of friends and neighbors, namely the Lyon family (four graves), Rachel Ingersoll, Willie Kelly, and Susan Wilson.

THE FERRIS CEMETERY
BY MICHAEL FERRIS

The Ferris Burial Ground

The Ferris Cemetery is in the Westmoreland Sanctuary near Bedford Road (Route 22) in the Town of Bedford near the North Castle border. We list it because many members of the Ferris family lived in the Town of North Castle and are buried here or related to those who are. The following list was taken from a directory compiled by Tracy Callaghan, Jay Delissio, Lara Hutchinson, Rosemary Mahoney (Secretary to the Bedford Town Historian), and the Bedford Historical Records, Vol. VIII. Since Richard Lander did not record this cemetery the grave numbers listed are from that directory.

The Fisher Burial Ground

The Fisher Cemetery is on North Broadway in North White Plains. Much of the land in this area once belonged to the Fisher family. There are eight known graves here. One monument is engraved with the name of a young man, Lt. Edward Fisher, who was killed outside of Richmond, Virginia during the Civil War. He was wounded at the Battle of Gaines Mills, Virginia on June 27th 1862 and buried at Savages Station, Virginia on June 29th 1862. The stones in this cemetery face east. (See town map of historic sites.)

THE FOSTER FAMILY BURIAL GROUND

By Norman T. MacDonald

The Foster family, early settlers in the White Plains area, are identified with the land on which the cemetery is located as early as 1776. The map of White Plains and environs in 1776, by John Rosch, indicates "Foster Hill" at that time located near the border of White Plains and North Castle.

The cemetery is located on land once owned by John Foster and was created by him as a family burial place probably around the time of the first burial in 1821. Over the years the cemetery was enclosed by a carefully built stone wall which stands today much the way it must have looked when it was created from stones taken from the fields in the surrounding area.

John Foster and his wife, Elizabeth, were the parents of ten children. The Fosters were farmers as were most of their children: John Foster, Jr., James Foster, Joseph P. Foster, Elijah Foster, William Ashly Foster, Susan Foster-married Daniel Cox, Elizabeth Ann Foster-married John Buckhout, Sarah Foster-married Benjamin Mathews.

John Foster died September 10, 1841 at the age of 71. His wife, Elizabeth, died August 30, 1834 at the age of 65. In his will, written a few weeks prior to his death, he states "I give and bequeath to my son, James, the lot of land bounded on the north by land on which Cox's house stands, on the east by the road and on the south by the burial ground." The will, which is lengthy, continues: "I give and bequeath to my son William Ashly my home stead, with all other lands attached thereto on the west side of the public highway, not otherwise disposed of, excepting and reserving forever and forever, for the purpose of a family burial ground, a piece of land situated on the west side of the highway aforesaid."

Over the years, several generations of the family have been buried in the cemetery. At the time of John Foster's death, his executors paid Robert Murdock $13.00 for "Grave Stones." They also paid one John Farrington $1.00 for digging the grave. It is assumed that the gravestones were for John and probably his wife Elizabeth.

The above information was compiled from family documents and from the will of John Foster, which is on file with the Clerk of Westchester County.

The Foster/Buckhout Burial Ground

The Foster/Buckhout Cemetery is on property in a very remote area where Buckhout Road in the southern area of North Castle becomes Hall Avenue in White Plains. Although it is now part of the White Plains watershed, the land was once the Foster farm in North Castle. The cemetery is just across the border in White Plains.

Richard Lander recorded many of the stones here in 1943, although ten of the stones were missing at the time. Since then most of the other stones were stolen except for one that was too large to move and several that were saved from theft and stored by the Cerrak brothers who were historians who lived in the area. These stones are presently being stored by the White Plains Historical Society. Fortunately, between Richard Lander, the White Plains Historical Society and descendants' records we have been able to compile a more complete list of who is buried in this old burial ground. The stones in this cemetery face south. (See town map of historic sites.)

THE LYON CEMETERY

by Richard N. Lander, 1986

No written record has been found by which Captain Roger Lyon set aside the land that later became the Lyon family cemetery. Indeed, he does not even mention it in his rather lengthy will.

However, the location was most appropriate, situated on a high point of land in a lush meadow across from his homestead farm. One could stand in the yard near the house and look across the Danbury Post Road to the last resting place

By the terms of his will the land surrounding the cemetery was devised to his son John (1748-1815) who lived and died on this farm and was laid to rest in the cemetery.

The first mention of the cemetery is found in a deed from John's son Abraham when he sold the farm to John Bussing in 1824. The deed conveys a 58-acre parcel and closes with these words: "Excepting the reserve of a burying ground with a driftway thereunto containing 2 rods as formerly laid out opposite the house of Joseph Lyon." (In the division of Captain Roger's lands the homestead was willed to son Joseph.) This reservation has been repeated in every deed of conveyance for the property until modern times.

Westchester's earliest historian, Rev. Robert Bolton, when preparing his first edition (1848) visited the Lyon farm and cemetery. "On the eastern shore of the lake (Byram) is situated the estate and residence of Samuel Lyon, Esq., whose family have long been settled in this part of town." He then goes on to describe Captain Roger and his entertainment of General Washington and the famous drinking story, noting that the silver cup used on this occasion is still preserved in the family.¹

Here follows a brief description of Major Samuel's capture, being surprised in the night by a party of Totten's (Tarleton's) Refugee Corps: "The marauders, after most inhuman treatment, plundered the house and farm and carried off their prisoners to New York." At the same time they captured the Major's brother, Captain Gilbert Lyon, a half-mile up the post road and carried them both off to the Sugar House prison in the city.

Bolton now recites: "Opposite the site of the old residence on Lyon Hill, lies the family cemetery which contains, among other memorials, the following: "In Memory of Major Samuel Lyon who departed this life January 23, 1819, age 71 yrs. 8 mo. and 19 days." And, "In Memory of Mary, wife of Samuel Lyon who departed this life January 10, 1792, age 45 yrs."

The Bussing family resided for many years on this farm and also buried their dead in the plot. Thus John Bussing (1784-1865) and Phebe (Clark) Bussing (1785-1856) and their children can be found there.

The last burial is probably that of Andrew Sniffin Nash (1795-1879), a prominent citizen and grandson of Andrew and Gloriana (Lyon) Sniffin, who was interred there January 9, 1879 by the Rev. Cornelius W. Bolton, Rector of St. Stephen's Church and brother of Robert, the historian.

Samuel Lyon (1787-1860), the son of Major Samuel, and known as "Squire Lyon" (many years a Justice of the Peace) resided in the homestead farm until his death. He and his wife, the former Rosalinda Fowler (1791-1844), were interred in the cemetery.

Sometime about the turn of the century Judge Lyon's grandson, John E. Todd of Long Ridge, Connecticut removed the bodies of Captain Roger, Major Samuel, and his grandparents, Judge Samuel and Rosalinda Fowler Lyon, to the Long Ridge Cemetery at Long Ridge, Connecticut, Judge Samuel's daughter, Henrietta C. Lyon (1825-1895) having married Elnathan Todd of Long Ridge. One can understand his desire to preserve the graves of his illustrious ancestors, but one is dismayed to learn he left behind in the old burial spot the wives of Captain Roger, Major Samuel and Major Samuel's infant children.

After the departure of the Bussings several different persons held title to and around the cemetery until the early nineteen hundreds when the farm was incorporated into "The Ledges," the estate of Major General Samuel McRoberts. General McRoberts was a wealthy and prominent citizen who earned his military rank in World War I. He and his workmen carefully watched over the cemetery for nearly fifty years. Upon his death the land was sold to developers.

Today on Lyon Court and Lyon Place the backyards of handsome colonial dwellings abut the ancient resting place. Great credit is due to this neighborhood for watching over the cemetery and to Mrs. Sherman, the owner of the lot over which the ancient right-of-way travels to the cemetery gate, as it is always beautifully mowed and kept open.²

² Today the right-of-way and cemetery are maintained by the North Castle Recreation and Parks Dept. and a cemetery sign has been installed.

The Lyon Burial Ground

The Lyon Cemetery is set back from Bedford Road (Route 22) across from Chestnut Ridge Road a few miles north of the village of Armonk. It is rumored that a number of Revolutionary War soldiers who supposedly died from their wounds in a field hospital are buried here, but no confirmation has been found regarding this. Captain Roger Lyon and his seven sons fought in the Revolutionary War. Around the turn of the 20th Century some of the people interred in this cemetery were removed to Long Ridge Cemetery in Connecticut. We have footnoted those who were moved. (See town map of historic sites.) In the course of researching this cemetery it was found that this Lyon family is directly related to Barbara S. Massi through a common grandfather, Thomas Lyon.

The Mianus Burial Ground

The Mianus Cemetery lies in the middle of approximately 1000 acres of the Mianus River Gorge Preserve in East Middle Patent. It was found in 2003 when a deed of 1807 turned up which mentions "thru the burial ground." After converting links and chains to feet and pacing off from the Mianus River this old cemetery was found, despite the fact that not a stone was above ground. Several stones and fieldstone markers have been unearthed by probing. These were set upright and it is expected that there are more to be found. We have listed those found as of July 2005 and left spaces available on our list to be filled in as stones are unearthed. This project was made possible through the efforts of Barbara Massi, George Pouder, Anthony Godino and Lew Massi. The original deed is the property of Muriel Kammerer.

MIDDLE PATENT RURAL CEMETERY

by Judy Johnson Zelter

This list was generated primarily from information found in the Richard N. Lander cemetery list (1940's), the Spencer Mead list (1909), and the Middle Patent Burial Permit list. The three lists did not always agree on the information and since I did not cross-check them against the inscriptions on the stones I simply included everything found. The Notes provide information regarding these discrepancies. However, I would advise an on-site view of the stone where possible

Brackets were used for information found in census records, publications, and other sources as noted.

This list contains information regarding deaths prior to 1950, with few exceptions. These exceptions were made where possible in order to keep family groups intact.

The RL# column indicates a numbering system set up by Richard Lander when compiling his survey of all the gravestones in North Castle in the 1940's. These numbers are based on his system. In some cases he added names to his list without numbers. Some were added as side notes after completing the original list. These names are included with a number separated by a decimal (when included with a family group) or, with a page number indicating where they were located on the original list. Decimal numbers are also used in cases of duplicate numbers on the original list. If there is no number or page listed in the RL# column the information is from the S. Mead or MPBP list, as indicated in the Notes.

ABBREVIATIONS:

RL: Richard Lander's cemetery survey of the Middle Patent Cemetery, North Castle, NY, compiled in the 1940's (with some more recent updates)

SM: Abstract of Tombstones of the Town of Greenwich (including Middle Patent Cemetery), by Spencer Mead, 1913. Survey completed in 1909

MPBP: Unrecorded Burial Permits from the Middle Patent Cemetery, Town of North Castle, Westchester Co., NY; Jan. 1940

MGB: The Story of Mary Guion Brown, from her Diary of 1800-1852, by Barbara Massi, published by the Millennium Committee of the Town of North Castle in 2000.

Addendum to Judy's introduction by B. Massi:

The following list of the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery was compiled by Judy Johnson Zelter of Berkley, California, a descendant of an early North Castle family. It is hard to describe the work involved or determine how many hours were devoted to this project, but between the complexity of the material, deciphering handwritings and conflicting information from several sources, I can assure the reader that it took many, many hours. Not only did Judy have to work from Richard Lander's handwritten list, she also took the time to add much extraneous information in order to help genealogists and descendants with their research! Although several drafts were done before we felt that it was ready to present here, the following copy of the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery was done solely by Judy - a dedicated historian - as a labor of love! It should be noted, however, that this project would not have been possible without the painstaking effort put forth by deceased Town Historian Dick Lander who, as a teenager some sixty years ago, copied the information from each gravestone in the Town of North Castle into a ledger. His commitment to the history of North Castle is legendary and I am confident that he would be extremely pleased with this endeavor!

Thank you Dick! And thank you Judy!

The Middle Patent Rural Cemetery

The Middle Patent Rural Cemetery began as a family burial place. Samuel Banks was the first to be interred in 1743. At this time the property was part of his farm. Born in Greenwich, Ct. in 1677 he was descended from the Banks and Finch families.

The following list of the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery was taken from the 1940's Richard N. Lander list, the 1907 Spencer Mead list and an incomplete, and often inaccurate, burial permit list. In many cases the lists did not agree, therefore we have put in the notes column any discrepancies that did not agree with the Lander list. The numbers are Lander's and are a continuation of all the numbered gravestones in North Castle that he compiled in the 1940's. In rare instances Lander noted in the name of someone who was buried at a later date, usually a relative. The latest stone we found on his list was 1979. For information on those buried in this cemetery after 1950 call the cemetery.

We have not checked the stones in this cemetery therefore it is advised that anyone doing research go directly to the stones since they are kept readable by the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery Association.

The Quaker Burial Ground

The Quakers (Religious Society of Friends) were quite prominent in North Castle. Their meetinghouse was on old Cox Avenue just south of the Sands (Wright's) Mill historic site. (The meetinghouse was moved to historic Smith's Tavern in the 1980's.) The Quaker Cemetery is approximately one mile from the original site and a few hundred feet behind its present site. It is situated on the top of a hill of approximately one acre above Byram Lake Road surrounded by wetlands. There is a right-of-way that crosses Smith's Brook and goes around the cemetery. The stones in this cemetery were repaired in 2004-5. The list that follows was originally taken from the Lander list with additions and corrections made as we read and rubbed the stones in 2000. Since then four other lists came to light, none of which match entirely with what we found on the stones. As with all the cemeteries a card file was made of this cemetery. It shows the information that was taken from all of the lists. The list that follows is from our observation of the stones. (See town map of historic sites.)

The Quinby Burial Ground

The Quinby (or Quimby) Cemetery is on Westchester County parkland at the southern end of Wampus Pond off Route 128. In 1802 the Chappaqua Friends Meeting (Quakers) were deeded the land and held it until the New York Watershed took it probably in the late 1800's. The Quinbys probably donated the land to the Quakers and this is why only Quinbys are buried here. Fortunately, Richard Lander's research tells us of most of those buried in this cemetery, and where. Since there are only fieldstone markers with initials, Lander researched their birth and death dates, which we list. He does not mention the rumor that one of the Quinbys married a local Indian and that this was first an Indian cemetery. Unfortunately we will never know. (See town map of historic sites.)

Map of the Quinby Cemetery as taken from Richard N. Lander's genealogical notes. This cemetery is at Burial Point at the south end of Wampus Pond. It was deeded in 1802 to the Chappaqua Friends Meeting (Quakers). See the renewal of title. It reveals that there are actually two Quaker cemeteries in Armonk. The land was later taken over by the Aqueduct Commission of New York City

The Committee to whom was referred the subject of renewal of titles, - Believe the time has arrived to propose to the Monthly meeting of Chappaqua to the titles to the two burial grounds within the limits of the town of North Castle be renewed, by reconveyance.

We therefore propose that the Monthly meeting direct the Clerk to sign a minute, directing the trustees having charge of the titles of the property belonging to this meeting, to renew the titles to the two burial grounds within the limits of the town of North Castle
by said trustees reconveying said grounds to Albert
Pomphrey, Robert S Haviland and Edward S Loring by a Committee in trust for the benefit of Chappaqua Monthly meeting
That after said trust deeds are properly executed, that they be recorded in the office of the Register of Westchester County, and said trustees make a full report of their labors and expenses to our next Monthly meeting.

The Smith Burial Ground

The Smith Cemetery is still used occasionally and is being cared for by family members. It is on the east side of Whippoorwill Road just south of Meadow Hill Road in Armonk. There is a right-of-way for about 100 feet leading to it. A stone wall surrounds it. The cemetery is located on the former farm of Jacob Smith whose house was on the high ground, now part of the Whippoorwill Country Club. One interesting stone is dedicated to Kenneth Martin Bates, Jr. Lt. J.G. U.S. Navy who was in the Vietnam War but later lost at sea when his jet crashed after taking off from a carrier. His body was never recovered. The stones in this cemetery face west. (See town map of historic sites.)

St. Stephens Burial Ground

In 1842 Elisha Sutton donated a quarter of an acre of his land in Mile Square for the purpose of erecting St. Stephens Episcopal Church. (The town of Armonk was once called Mile Square.) The new church was erected in the newly developing area of what today is downtown Armonk and is presently part of North Castle's Historic District. The land to the rear of the church was evidently used as a burial ground as early as 1825 when George Lander was buried there. This is the first known burial found in this cemetery and took place well before Elisha Sutton's 1842 land donation to the church. Therefore, unless George Lander was moved to St. Stephens from another cemetery we must assume that the cemetery was once a private burial ground. (See town map of historic sites.)

The Townsend Burial Ground

The Townsend Cemetery is located in the far corner of an estate on Orchard Drive in Armonk. The Townsend family homestead was just down the hill on Main Street (Route 128) and is presently incorporated into a small business complex near Old Mt. Kisco Road. Israel Townsend, Jr. was once a supervisor of the Town of North Castle. The stones in this cemetery face east toward the old homestead. (See town map of historic sites.)

THE FORGOTTEN ROLL OF HONOR

by Richard N. Lander, 1974

When a visitor reaches the heights of Middle Patent Cemetery where the forefathers of the community sleep, his attention is immediately drawn to the cluster of American flags which abound among the old stones. These are the graves of the men from that portion of colonial North Castle who rendered service in various American units in the War for Independence.

The author has catalogued nineteen graves of Revolutionary War veterans within the present boundaries of the Town of North Castle and fifteen are located in the town's oldest burial ground at Middle Patent. To be sure there are probably others which time has erased or records do not trace, indeed a list of pensioners for the town compiled by the government in the eighteen-twenties shows the names of two veterans, John Smith and Samuel Miller who lived in the Middle Patent area residing respectively with Silas Sutherland and Joseph Feeke, whose graves cannot be found and are obviously unmarked. The names of several other Middle Patent men appear on the muster rolls of the Westchester County Militia whose graves must be unmarked, for a diligent search does not find them among their widows, children or descendents in the ancient grounds.

Great credit is due to two local organizations who have not forgotten the historic dead: the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery Association and North Castle American Legion Post 1097. The cemetery association has embarked on a program of restoring and recutting the ancient monuments that were fast being lost to the erosion of time. Over the past half a dozen years at a considerable cost, the association has pursued a systematic preservation program. Some years before the Town of North Castle hooded some of the old brown stones with copper. In this manner many of the stones of the veterans have been preserved. (The stone of Deacon Silas Sutherland was in such bad need of repair that the Cemetery submitted his war record and other necessary forms to the United States Government who then furnished the grave with a beautiful new marker of Vermont marble citing his service in it's inscription.) The American Legion has furnished the appropriate flag markers for graves and faithfully places flags upon them each Memorial Day.

Some of these men played important roles on the local scene in the struggle to achieve our independence, and some who were in the Militia probably saw action (if then) only twice: the Battle of White Plains on October 28, 1776, and the retreat of the British from the burning of Bedford, July 2, 1779. Because of the close proximity of the state line some served in Connecticut units, especially the Ninth Connecticut Militia. Spencer P. Mead, in his "History of Greenwich," tells us part of this regiment under Col. John Mead took part in the Battle of Long Island, August 27, 1776, and was one of the last regiments to leave New York on the retreat from the city. It was engaged in the Battle of White Plains where it suffered considerable loss.

David Hobby of Middle Patent rose through the ranks of the Westchester County Militia and at the close of the war (1781) was the Colonel commanding the Second Regiment. His son, Jonathan, was taken prisoner (the story now lost as to how) and spent some time in the "Sugar House," the notorious British military prison in New York City. He predeceased his father, dying a young man on October 3, 1796. His father, the Colonel, died February 7, 1812. We are told that when the British burned Bedford they attempted to

He predeceased his father, dying a young man on October 3, 1796. His father, the Colonel, died February 7, 1812. We are told that when the British burned Bedford they attempted to go down to Middle Patent to arrest certain persons who had been very obnoxious to them. The rising of the Militia and the bridge over the Mianus River being destroyed, the British light horse turned back. The author has always suspected David Hobby was one of the persons they were after.

The last survivor of this glorious company of men was Enos Hobby who died January 1, 1857, age 95 years, 11 months and 19 days. He was approximately thirteen when the war began, but served as a scout in a company of rangers from Stanwich, Connecticut whose last service was performed in the year 1780, when he was about eighteen years of age.

With the close of the war these men assumed places of religious, political, agricultural, and business leadership in the Middle Patent and North Greenwich community of which they were a part, and we, the inheritors of their legacy may be proud of the record they made in establishing our independence!

PREFACE TO VETERAN'S LIST

For many years North Castle Post No. 1097, American Legion, and the now deceased Town Historian Richard N. Lander, engaged in making a record of the burial places of North Castle veterans buried in all of the cemeteries in the Town of North Castle.

This graves registration project was first begun in the 1930 era by Arthur E. Hendry, a charter member of Post 1097, for the purpose of placing flags on the graves of veterans on Memorial Day. Mr. Hendry's work was continued by the late John Wieczorek and at the present time by Walter Raymond Bell, Jr.

The original lists kept by Mr. Hendry listed only veterans of the Civil War and First World Wars. Much additional research was done by Lander, who was Town Historian from 1946 until his death in 1993, and "Ray" Bell. This research included the veterans of the American Revolution, World War II, Korea, and Vietnam..

Great credit should be given to North Castle Post 1097 for its years of effort in listing and decorating the graves of all North Castle veterans. Each Memorial Day the Post decorates each grave with a flag.

Many years ago the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery set aside a large plot in a prominent location for the exclusive burial of veterans. This plot is controlled by the Cemetery Board of Directors in consultation with Post 1097, and is reserved for veterans who reside or have resided in Bedford, North Castle and North Greenwich. Through Ray Bell North Castle Post 1097 marked this plot with a suitable bronze plaque.

Much valuable historical information can be found on the stones furnished by the United States Government which list the rank, company and regiment of the deceased veterans. (All honorably discharged veterans are entitled to a government marker at no charge.) Many hours of research was also done to ascertain the military groups of those who do not have government markers. There are several names on this list which are marked with an asterisk to note that no military group designation was found of their service in the Civil War (only). However, since their names appear on Mr. Hendry's original lists, these names were not removed from the Lander/Bell list.

There are undoubtedly other veterans buried within the town's cemeteries who have no monuments and thus their graves are unrecorded. There are several known interments without markers, and in those few cases they are shown.

Key to letters shown behind each name, as follows:

- F - Family stone
- G - Government marker
- U - Unmarked
- C - Columbarium
- VP - Veterans' Plot

In compiling this list Richard N. Lander expressed his appreciation to Walter R.(Ray) Bell, Jr. for his continuing interest and assistance in this project and to Marguerite Hopkins Lewis for typing the Lander list. The following was taken from that list and updated.

SUMMARY OF HINTS FOR GENEALOGISTS

From Gravestone Chronicles

1. Survey the entire graveyard. Families did not usually own specific areas in early burying grounds. Family units were not always interred together. Many very old burying grounds have been rearranged or even relocated, so that original burial patterns have often been lost.
2. If you locate a family group, record the names and dates of all buried there. Note the family names of adjacent burials.
3. If you do not find the family member you are seeking in the family plot, look elsewhere in the burying ground. Young married women, especially those who died shortly after marriage or in childbirth with the first child, are frequently buried with their parents (or their husband's parents) rather than by themselves in a new area.
4. Look for grave markers that are out of place; that is, stones that reflect a regional style or stone material foreign to the local area. The source of such an out-of-place grave marker is often a valuable clue to a family's origin.
5. Look for fraternal emblems and/or occupational symbolism on grave markers. Turn to local records of these groups for additional information about an ancestor.
6. Cemetery records may give details of a relocated burial, often revealing when, where, and by whom remains were moved. This can tell you where a family was from or where they went. Burial records plot plans may also register burials for which no markers exist.
7. Look for early inventories and epitaph collections from area burying grounds. Markers lost through erosion, vandalism, theft, or neglect are often listed in these obscure accounts.
8. Remember to look in the burying grounds and records of surrounding towns. Town jurisdictions were not always as important as the family's proximity to a graveyard.
9. A tall mirror is a valuable asset when trying to read or photograph the lettering on early gravestones. Use it to direct the sun at a raking angle across the face of the stone.
10. In Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire probate records and deeds are filed in registries at the county seat. In Vermont and Connecticut probate records are filed in a district office, and deeds are recorded with the town clerks. In Rhode Island both probate records and deeds are filed in the towns.

TM OLDSTONE'S GUIDE TO CREATIVE RUBBINGS

Before you set off to rub your favorite gravestone, there are a few things you must understand about old graveyards and cemeteries. First they are places to commemorate the dead and you should be respectful of this. Old graveyards are also outdoor museums and contain vast amounts of historic, artistic, and architectural information.

Rubbing does not harm gravestones if done properly and will actually help remove dirt, lichens, and acid rain residue. Rubbing gravestones can be an educational family activity and encourages people to conserve and preserve old graveyards. However, not all graveyards allow stones to be rubbed. Check local rules and regulations to make sure it is permitted.

If you are still unsure whether it is possible to rub a gravestone, check with the cemetery superintendent, or with the local historical society, or at the Town Hall to receive a permit and to find out the correct way to rub a stone and what equipment you will need such as "cupcake" rubbing wax, "Aqaba" rubbing paper, a natural bristle brush, and non-sticky masking tape.

When selecting a gravestone to rub, avoid rough stones, eroded or damaged stones, or densely lichenized stones. Rubbing a stone that is deeply engraved or has a high relief will tear the rubbing paper. If the stone is flaking or has been damaged, avoid it. It's very hard to get a good rubbing from a damaged stone, and very easy to deface or damage a stone if the paper tears and wax gets onto the stone.

Step 1. Any dirt or bird droppings can be carefully brushed away with your rubbing kit brush. This is a soft natural bristle brush especially developed to clean gravestones. Sometimes plain water might also be necessary. Never use detergents to clean a gravestone. Plain water works very well without harming the stone. If you have trouble getting any impurities off, don't damage the stone in an attempt to clean it. Small impurities will not harm your rubbings in any way, and may even add an air of individuality to them.

Step 2. Wrap the rubbing paper around the stone paying special attention to completely cover the area you would like to rub. Tape the paper tightly and securely to the back of the stone. It is best to fold the paper over the sides and the top of the stone and tape its edges behind the stone.

Step 3. Using the flat side of the special wax lightly rub the wax on the paper and watch the design appear. This should be done slowly and gently. Rub small sections at a time and continue to darken in the design, filling it in until the color and richness suits you. Some people like very dark rubbings while others like lightly colored ones. This is really a matter of personal preference.

Step 4. When the rubbing is finished, carefully remove the tape from the paper, being careful not to tear the edges of the paper. Then remove the paper from the stone and place your rubbing where it will be protected from the wind while you are still in the graveyard. And of course, leave the site as you found it.

Be sure that you record the deceased name, date of birth (if on stone), date of death, age and where the stone is located.

AFTERWORD

We wish to thank those who so graciously supported this book and, in particular, those who took a turn or two out in the field with us! We are especially grateful to Dick Lander whose sense of history, even at the young age of fifteen, gave us so much information to work with!

We are confident that we have come as close as possible in accurately recording all of the gravestones in North Castle, with the exception of the Middle Patent Rural Cemetery since we did not check the stones against the list in this cemetery. It is hoped that this endeavor will prove to be beneficial to present and future genealogists and that it will be realized that this is only the beginning of an ongoing project to solve the mysteries of some of the people who inhabited the Town of North Castle over the centuries. Now it is up to other researchers to fill in the rest of the information by calling or writing us with any information that can be added to the card file! In this way, we are sure, family connections can be made and genealogies filled in. Family bibles and old deeds, etc. are a good place to start. Also maiden names and marriage records, etc. are always helpful.

So if you haven't already joined the research generation, now's the time to start!
